LOCAL LACONICS.

Democratic primaries were held on Saturday.

A few sidewalks in town need the especial attention of some one.

A number of Reynoldsville people attended the reunion at Punxsutawney last Thursday.

"Our German Ward" at the opera house next Monday evening.

The new boiler for the water works was taken to the engine house yesterday.

The W. R. C. expects to give a "chestnut" entertainment in the near future.

About fifty ladies, with their little chaps, picnicked near John Goodwill's last Wednesday.

James Flynn had the index finger of his right hand broken while at work at Big Soldier last Friday.

Rev. W. K. Crosby, of Garland, Pa., preached two excellent sermons in the M. E. church last Sunday.

A wire fence has been built back of the gas office for the purpose of utilizing part of the lot for a lawn.

The M. E. Sunday school of Emerickville will picnic in the grove near the church Saturday, August 27th.

Dr. J. B. Neale amputated Charley Hartman's finger at the third joint on Wednesday evening of last week.

There is a case in town where a father and son are brother-in-laws and the son's mother is his sister-in-law.

Henry Priester has been hobbling around the past week on account of accidentally striking his right foot with a pick.

Harry Carr, a five-year-old boy, upset a pan of hot starch on his right arm Monday forenoon and burned it severely.

The captain of a detachment of the Salvation Army is trying to negotiate for the Electric Park at DuBois to establish barracks.

Nomination papers will be circulated in this county by the Prohibition party to enable them to place their candidates on the official ballot.

Saturday, August 27th, will be a day of sport at Sykesville. A foot ball game, mule race, foot race, jumping match, in fact it will be a real picnic.

One week from to-morrow the festive bivalvular shell-fish will be riding over the country on fast freights or express trains. R you aware of the fact?

The A. V. R'y will run a cheap excursion on Tuesday, Aug. 30th, to Chautauque, Niagara Falls, New York, and Toronto, and Canada. Tickets good for fifteen days.

At the last meeting of the officers of the Water company, August 10th, an edict was passed that all nozzles on street sprinklers should not be over one quarter of an inch.

Vreeland's minstrels were greeted at the opera house last Thursday evening with a crowded house. The company is a good one and pleases the people every place they play.

The Epworth League will picnic at Sandy Valley this afternoon and evening and will hold a social at the home of Miss Lou Foust, on Jackson street, Friday evening of this week.

There were some old young people in Reynoldsville the day after the Endeavor picnic, especially the young ladies who played base ball. They were too stiff to button their shoes.

The State Convention of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held at Altoona on October 10th to 13th. It is expected that twenty-five thousand delegates will be in attendance.

William Barkley lost a valuable cow the past week. The bovine got into the swamp below Mr. Barkley's house and in lifting her out she was injured internally from which she died.

Priester Bros. team took a lively run from the A. V. R'y station to the corner of Main and Second streets last Thursday. One of the horses fell down which stopped the mad race. No serious damage done.

There is no doubt but that at no distant day the R. R. & P. R'y will have air brakes on their freight cars. This would be a good move and will better enable the railroad men to control trains on that road.

The Presbyterian Sunday school of this place will picnic in the Electric Park at DuBois on Tuesday, August 30th. The scholars, their parents, members of the church and their friends are invited to attend the picnic.

One of the things badly needed at present is water in the lock-up. The new lock-up is a great improvement over the old one, yet to have closets in the building it is absolutely necessary to have water running in there also.

J. B. Arnold received a letter Monday from Hon. A. R. Mackall, of Liverpool, Ohio, stating that he would let the people of Reynoldsville know next week the exact cost of an electric street car line, as experienced men are figuring on it.

The barbers and cigarmakers of this place played the tailors and barbers of Brookville a return game of ball on the latter grounds Thursday afternoon, and were defeated through the inability to solve Hodkins' delivery by a score of 19 to 2.

Perhaps the Republican Congressional conference will be able to make a nomination before the fall election. The conference meets at Saltsburg, Pa., at seven o'clock this evening. There were two hundred and fifty-eight ballots taken at Punxsutawney, where they met last.

Last Thursday a tenement house of John Brennan caught fire, the alarm was given and the fire companies responded promptly. The East End company was first at the fire and it required a small amount of water to extinguish the blaze. The damage was slight.

A valuable Jersey cow belonging to George Mellinger ceased her faithful work of keeping the family supplied with the best of cream last Friday night. The real cause of her death is not positively known. Mr. Mellinger would not have taken one hundred dollars for his cow.

The seventh annual convention of the Jefferson county W. C. T. U. will be held at Bellview, Stanton postoffice, on Wednesday and Thursday, August 31st and September 1st. Carriages will meet delegates at the Brookville railroad station on Wednesday at 2:20 P. M. All are cordially invited.

A number of Reynoldsville sports have been invited to Martin Hetrick's cornfield next Saturday evening for a feast. Mr. Hetrick says two little pigs and two ground hogs will be the meats served. No doubt but that the meats, drinks, etc., will transform a few participants into two-legged hogs.

It is not a certainty yet, but in all probability a two-story brick will adorn the corner of Main and Fifth streets on the lot where the rink building stood. If erected it will have a seventy-five foot front and will be seventy feet deep. G. M. Rea and John M. Hays are the gentlemen who are figuring on the project.

A brakeman on the A. V. R'y by name of Meliheny might have suddenly quit railroading last Friday evening. He was on top of a box car passing the coal tipples near the tannery and not paying strict attention to the surroundings his head came in contact with some part of the tipples, cutting a gash three inches long in his head.

On Friday a picked up nine from here crossed bats with the first nine of Brookville, and for the first three innings put up a miserable game, allowing their opponents to make eleven runs while they scored but once. They then settled down and played with vim and vigor but could not overcome the lead Brookville had secured. Score 14 to 5.

We propounded the question several weeks ago of having a steam laundry in Reynoldsville and the matter is now being investigated and in all probability the people of this place will not be compelled to send their washing to Titusville, Pittsburg, Bradford or any other place. There is no reason why Reynoldsville should not have a laundry. It would, doubtless, be a paying establishment.

David Maxwell, a box car tourist, commonly called tramp, was arrested by F. P. Adelsperger in a box car at the A. V. R'y station one day last week and taken to Brookville for a ten days' vacation. Sheriff Young will see that the tramp does not receive a sun-stroke while at Hotel deYoung. Stealing a ride was the charge against him. He was just returning from a pleasure trip to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had been to see his mother.

The Prescottville man who, it will be remembered, was arrested under the charge of stealing a cow from a man at Sabula, Pa., in July and was released when the necessary bail was procured, was taken to the Clearfield jail Saturday night for safe keeping until court convenes. The man who bailed the accused became suspicious of him, consequently gave the man into the hands of the proper authorities and withdrew the bail, hence he was placed in durance vile.

A DOSE OF STRYCHNINE.

Being Weary of Life, Mrs. Wm. Hill Committed Suicide Friday.

Something out of the usual routine of life occurred in Reynoldsville about noon last Friday. The startling news was rapidly spread through town that a woman had committed suicide. It proved, alas, too true. Mrs. William A. Hill, a young woman who was at the time living with her husband and his parents in the eastern suburbs of town, had hastily "shuffled off this mortal coil" on the strychnine route. Friday morning she came down town and visited some friends. She borrowed twenty-five cents from one lady friend saying that she wanted to buy a few little things with it. She returned home about noon, told her mother-in-law that she wanted to write a letter and retired to her room requesting that the children, whom she kissed, be kept down stairs, as she did not want to be annoyed with them. Not long after groans were heard up stairs and a neighbor was called and upon going to the room her lifeless form was found stretched out upon the bed. The coroner, Dr. N. E. Holden, of Corsica, was telegraphed for who arrived in the evening and impaneled the following jury with Dr. J. B. Neale as foreman: C. J. Kerr, H. C. Deible, S. T. Daugherty, James Campbell and F. K. Arnold. The inquest began at nine o'clock and the verdict was reached at 2:00 A. M. Saturday, the substance of which was as follows: That the deceased came to her death by her own hands by taking strychnine or some other poison unknown to the jury, and that it was through the abuse and neglect of her husband that she committed suicide.

Mrs. Hill's maiden name was Maggie Garner and her parents live near Echo postoffice, and her remains were buried in the Hill Church cemetery, Clarion county, Saturday, August 20th. She was married to William A. Hill December 7th, 1891. Marriage, in this case, was a failure, and happiness was not one of the beauties of their home life, on the contrary family jars were not unrequited occurrences. The woman, who was nearly twenty-one years old, becoming weary of life with its sorrows, coolly planned to end her miserable existence and was successful in the attempt. She wrote a letter to her husband, which she held in her hand when found, relating his abuse and neglect, and yet notwithstanding his inhuman treatment, told him she still loved him with all heart.

A Broken Arm.

Lillie, daughter of Mrs. Joanna Anderson of West Reynoldsville, jumped from a high porch yesterday and broke her left arm at the elbow joint. She and a neighbor girl by name of Scott were out on the roof of the porch playing and the Scott girl proposed that they jump to the ground. She said, "Lillie you jump first," which she did with the above result. The Scott girl, however, did not jump. Mrs. Anderson has her share of trouble. August, the one-legged news boy, is her son and now, in all probability, her little daughter will always have a stiff arm.

Drunk and Abusive.

A man who had imbibed freely of "tangle-foot" Sunday made himself obnoxious to respectable people and Adelsperger informed the drunken individual that he would have to go home and keep quiet. He became very abusive with the officer and in consequence thereof the hand-cuffs encircled his wrist and he accompanied Adelsperger to the lock-up. Inside the prison walls he became furious and destroyed the bunk in his cell and twisted one of the iron bars as though it were a willow rod. He eventually cooled down, paid his fine and went home quietly.

Almost Cost a Finger.

J. D. Shearer, an employee at Hopkins mill, met with an accident one day last week by which he came very nearly amputating the index finger of his left hand and sustained a severe cut on the second finger. He was hurriedly cutting wood for his wife when the mishap occurred. His doctor said: "A man who is guilty of cutting wood for his wife ought to lose a finger." Mr. Shearer evidently thinks it is a man's business to cut the wood, for he said he would be willing to lose a finger every day.

No More Loafing.

It has become a well known fact that 'Squire E. T. McGaw's office is a regular Democratic loafing place and the public will be amazed to learn that McGaw has emphatically forbidden any more loafing in his office, but 'tis a fact. The edict was issued yesterday morning. No explanation given to his all day customers; will not even arbitrate the case, but says No! with a big "N." It is likely Jimmy Campbell has put him up to it.

Kicked by a Cow.

Mrs. John McCreight, who lives near town, mother of Dr. J. S. McCreight, received quite a severe kick from a young cow last Thursday. The bovine has a reputation for her kicking propensities but had not succeeded in injuring any one until last week. While Mrs. McCreight was milking her she kicked wickedly.

The Grange Picnic.

The Grangers of Jefferson county held a picnic in the grove in Paradise Settlement last Thursday, although not as well attended as was anticipated, yet it was an enjoyable affair for all who were present. There are 18 Granges in the county and they were all represented but one. Soon after eight o'clock in the morning farmers and their families were on hand for a day of pleasure. The forenoon hours were spent in various ways, the Paradise orchestra made the woods ring with their excellent music. A dinner in the grove, such as the farmers know now to prepare, was not slighted by the hungry Grangers. Speech-making was indulged in quite freely in the afternoon. W. L. McCracken, district attorney, delivered the first address. Maj. John McMurray, of the Brookville Democrat, John W. Phillips, candidate for Assembly on the Democratic ticket, and Ben J. Sykes, of Sykesville, delivered addresses. Each address was followed by some choice selection from the orchestra. McMurray, Democrat, and Sykes, Republican, used the politics of to-day as a nucleus for their remarks. Supper was served in the grove and a meeting of the Grange was held in the hall in the evening. The day was a beautiful one and everything passed off pleasantly.

Results of the Primaries.

The Democratic primaries were held last Saturday and the County Convention was held at Brookville Monday. The following ticket was wafted on the political breeze for the consideration of the voters of Jefferson county: Congress, Capt. Hannibal K. Sloan, of Indiana county; Senate, H. H. Brosius, Brookville; Assembly, John W. Phillips, of Winslow township; Coroner, Dr. Haney, of Sykesville; County Surveyor, Eli Coulter, of Punxsutawney. The three candidates for Senate were the only ones who made any special efforts for the nomination, as the others had no opposition. Gillespie was "not in it." The vote for Senate was as follows: Brosius, 1,576; Barclay, 1,508; Gillespie, 18. In this borough Barclay got 47 votes, Brosius 21 and Gillespie 1.

False to Her Vow.

Mike Gallardo and Mrs. Nickolina Karto, Italians, came to Reynoldsville last week with the intention of living here as man and wife, but on Saturday when they saw Mr. Karto, of Coalport, from whence they came, walking up Main street, they decided that some other town might be more beneficial for their health and in the evening Gallardo and his paramour started to leave town, but Karto had requested Adelsperger to intercept them, which the chief-of-police did faithfully and the eloping twain were put in the lock-up until Monday morning when they were taken to Coalport by Mr. Adelsperger where they will have to answer the charges of adultery and taking fifty dollars in money from the outraged husband.

Cupid's Assiduity.

A wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Harriet Repsher, on Jackson street, Monday of this week, in which Rev. Jas. K. Noble, the Baptist minister of Punxsutawney, who delivered the address in the cemetery at this place last Decoration Day, and Mrs. Lydia C. Schreckengost, of Punxsutawney, daughter of Mrs. Repsher, were the contracting parties. Rev. E. T. Dorr performed the marriage ceremony which united these two in the holy bonds of wedlock who have both stood before hymen in other days. Mrs. Noble spent her girlhood days in Reynoldsville and has many old acquaintances here who join with THE STAR in wishing the newly married pair unbounded happiness.

A Good Entertainment.

The entertainment in the opera house Monday evening, under the auspices of the W. R. C. of Reynoldsville, was a good one and the management deserve credit for it. The admission fee was only ten cents and the opera house was packed, many standing during the two hour program. Space will not permit a general "blow" for all who took part on the program and as all are deserving of notice we will not make any comment on the performers. The DuBois talent exhibited was of a good quality. It is to be hoped that the W. R. C. will soon give a similar entertainment.

At Reynolds Opera House.

The play "Our German Ward" has been entirely rewritten since it was last presented here, changing it from a mello drama to a very funny musical comedy. During the action of the play many refined musical specialties will be introduced, also vocal selections by the New Orleans Quartette, while the descriptive overtures and medleys by the superb orchestra connected with this company are alone worth the price of admission. At the opera house Monday evening, August 29th.

Escaped from Jail.

Five prisoners in the Ridgway jail were conspicuous by their absence last Sunday morning when the breakfast hour arrived. They had escaped during the night. The telegraph wires were used Sunday in sending descriptions of the men to various places in the hope of re-capturing them.

THE WOOLEN MILL.

Seventy-five Hundred Pounds of Wool Used Monthly.

A few days ago we visited the woolen mill in West Reynoldsville and found quite an extensive plant, larger perhaps than many of our citizens think it is. First class machinery, representing considerable money, is continually turning out excellent work. The mill is an old established one and has gained quite a reputation, and the goods are sold from Boston to Chicago. The proprietors, G. W. Sykes, G. H. Allis and Eli Moorhouse believe that it pays to make things as represented. Through the kindness of Mr. Moorhouse we were shown through the mill. We started in where the wool is spread out and sprinkled with oil and followed it up until we came across very pretty flannels, blankets, lap robes, skirts, etc. The first room visited is where the wool is blended. This room contains a picker and duster; next in order was the card room where two sets of carders were found. We ascended the third floor where two large self-acting spinners, with 548 spindles, were in operation. These two machines monopolize the entire third floor. Next was the weave room in which they have ten broad and narrow looms, with all the other necessary machinery for making of warps. Then we looked at two yarn twisting frames and a spooler and other machinery connected with the yarn department. The finishing room contains a napper, winder and one four-string scourer. There are five vats in the dye house. There is a long room in which they have what is termed tender bars. Five knitting machines, closer and bobbin winder are among the numerous machines to be found at the factory. And the din within those walls, with everything a stirring and the machinery all turning, clattering, rattling, rumbling and roaring away, is almost deafening. A person can hardly hear himself think amidst such an uproar. About seventy-five hundred pounds of dirty looking wool is turned into beautiful material every month. It is a wonderful transformation from the raw wool to the fine pieces of flannel, etc. A forty horse power engine and boiler furnishes the power that keeps this hive of industry in motion. When the mill is run full handed thirty people find employment there.

The Very Chaps.

Brother Bangert of the Falls Creek Herald, editorially expostulated recently on the absurdity of a young man falling down on his knees before a fair maiden whose hand he sues as a help-mate in stemming the turbid waters of life's vast ocean of difficulties. We think the Herald man writes, not from his own experience, but from the experience of some fellow who married during his "calf-love" season, when he is more of a fool than a man. Bro. Bangert, when you see a couple that indulge in the "tootsy wootsy business," as you call it, before they are married, you can count on nine out of ten such contracts being a deplorable union. Why? Because they are not in love, merely making fools out of themselves to the disgust of all who are compelled to witness their sickish-sickness. Reynoldsville has a few samples. We agree with the Herald that a man is somewhat "soft" to get down on his knees before the one whom he seeks to wed, but if he does act so foolish he should ever after be true to the vows he has taken. All the matrimonial trouble we read and hear about now-a-days is not caused by the wives. How about the fellow who promises to love, protect and care for a girl and after she becomes his wife he proves to be the most contemptible tyrant that can be conceived of? Who snaps and snarls around his home; who thinks his wife is a crank; whose nasty temper strikes terror to his family and his very presence forbodes trouble. Nothing suits him about the house. How about such wretches? Is it any wonder his wife thinks of the days when he was all smiles and was willing to do anything. Ah! no. And such whelps are the very chaps that "feel like going out in the back yard and kicking themselves from center to circumference," when reminded of their days of gallantry.

Want Water.

DuBois is in a precarious condition on account of the scarcity of water. The Courier, the faithful enterprising journal of that town, has been using its influence to have the water company, which is hardly worthy the appellation, make such preparations as shall avoid a water famine, but their efforts have been in vain so far. If another large conflagration visits our sister town during this dry spell her citizens can retire to the hill-side and watch it burn, lamenting all the while that they had not made the so called water company supply the town with water. The street cars were stranded for want of water.

Jonathan Whitmore, the drayman, was compelled to shoot one of his mules last Friday. The long-eared animal got the blind-staggers and became a raving mad mule. It came very nearly tearing the interior out of the barn and Mr. Whitmore was afraid it would kill some one so a dose of cold lead put a quietus to the devilishness of that mule's life.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. F. W. Campbell is visiting friends in Butler county.

Dr. N. E. Holden, coroner, of Corsica, was in town Friday.

W. E. Hay, of DuBois, left his autograph on the Hotel McConnell register one day last week.

Miss Cora Booth is at Reidsburg, Clarion county, attending the Clarion Baptist association this week.

Mrs. A. T. Bing was in DuBois several days last week, called there by the serious illness of her father.

Mrs. S. Weil and daughter, Jennie, of Altoona, formerly residents here, visited at N. Hanau's during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mara and daughter, Katie, of West Newton, have been visitors at G. W. Stoke's the past week.

Ben Haugh attended a family re-union on the old homestead in Union township, where his brother, Harvey, resides yesterday.

Tom Neff, son of 'Squire Neff of this place, who has been in Pittsburg for the past few years is now visiting in Reynoldsville.

Jacob Henninger has been walking stiffly for several days because rheumatisms have been playing havoc with his neck and shoulder.

Mrs. Anna Meyers and sister, Mrs. Ella McGarvey, of Altoona, Pa., returned home yesterday after a week's visit with R. L. Miles' family.

George Harding and daughter, Annie, of Ocala, Florida, arrived in Reynoldsville Saturday and will remain here until the latter part of September.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Reed and daughter, Miss Eleanor, were called to Sligo last Thursday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Reed's father, Col. Boyles.

Frank Caldwell, who lives in West Reynoldsville, brought a small twig off an apple tree to this office yesterday afternoon that had four large apples on it.

Harry H. Mincer, night policeman, was in Johnsonburg yesterday looking after a young man who boarded with him sometime ago and failed to liquidate the account.

J. B. Grimshaw and wife, of Scranton, Mrs. J. B. Johnson, of Pittsburg and Gettys Sloppy and wife, of DuBois, were at John T. Coax's Valley Home attending a family re-union last Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Shearer, of Williamsport, has joined her husband at Hopkins mill where they will live. Mr. Shearer has been at the mill for sometime without his wife and now he is as happy as a benedict.

Frank J. Black, the genial proprietor of Hotel McConnell, has been trying to keep himself warm the past week by an application of mustard plasters on his breast and taking inwardly some of the hottest compounds to be found in the apothecary shop. A threatened attack of pleurisy was the reason given for the torture.

"Our German Ward."

[Punxsutawney News, Feb. 11, 1891.]
Middaugh's Comedy Company, which appeared at the opera house last night, drew a large crowd, as was sure to be the case when it was announced that the troupe would be here. The people were well pleased with the entertainment. This is Middaugh's second visit to this place and if he ever comes again he will no doubt receive a hearty welcome. Will appear at the opera house Monday evening, August 28th.
